Rate of Influence NA Dales Foundation Ancestors in the 11 yr. Breeding Pool	18
Licensed Prospect Colts in NA	20

Description

The following is an organization of bloodline data related to the Dales ponies in North America (NA) born between the years 2015 and 2025 (11 yr. analysis). The DPS registered foals in NA were identified in this 11 yr. period. The pedigrees of ancestors of each foal were noted and organized in a reverse format creating a visual that shows how NA producers and prospects are related. In most cases, the reverse pedigree of any identified common ancestor will show bloodline pathways extending to the 4th, and 5th-7th generation.

Globally the Dales breeding gene pool, meaning the ponies that have actually produced foals in the 11 yr. window, is incredibly small. The 11 yr. average global foal registrations is 115. When considering what will actually be available for future breeding, castrated colts should be eliminated in the count. So for this NA analysis, the data was collected and organized based on fillies and colts not recorded as geldings and are referred to as 'prospects'. In NA, I identified 43 prospect fillies and 23 prospect colts and calculated average annual prospect production to be 6 foals. This rate is incredibly low and emphasizes the challenge in expanding diversity for the future.

Because the gene pool has been small for many generations, past line/in-breeding was common. All breeders should understand the basic concepts of how line/in-breeding works at the genetic level in risk of creating homozygosity of undesirable genetic mutations. I encourage all breeders to familiarize themselves with the effects of inbreeding depression. A micro breeding pool, such as is in NA, requires all breeders to pay attention to what lines are collectively produced for the future ensuring that lines don't disappear and don't dominate.

Purpose and Use of the Data

The purpose of organizing this data is to provide insight into exactly what bloodlines are being produced for the future. Breeders who are concerned about creating more bloodline diversity are given a NA global picture of how both the current collective breeding stock and prospective future breeding stock are related. The data lets us see what bloodlines are well represented as well as missing or underrepresented. The Dales pony globally has struggled with a very small gene pool for many generations. Making informed decisions related to breeding matches, out crossing lines, retiring certain stock and acquiring new stock will help ensure expansion of bloodline diversity. For larger gene pools, it's often sufficient to just avoid heavy line breeding. But with a gene pool as small as we have with the Dales pony, we need to also make sure that we are not all collectively overproducing the same lines.

How to Read the Reverse Pedigrees

The NA foals born 2015-2025 were traced back to 30 foundation ancestors. This is a number NA should seek to increase. Each foundation ancestor has a reverse pedigree that shows how the foals and their parents are related. The reverse pedigrees are color coded where sires of the foals are in bold blue, dams of the foals are in bold pink, progeny prospect fillies are in orange, progeny prospect colts are green with licensed prospect colts showing an * after their name. Any pony listed in black is a producer outside the 11 yr. window of analysis or a foundation UK ancestor. At the start of the pedigrees there is a key for the color codes for reference.

Within the 11 yr. breeding period I identified: 24 producing stallions, 41 producing mares, 7 licensed prospect colts, 16 non licensed prospect colts, and 43 prospect mares. This gives us a combined total of 65 producers and 66 prospects. Note: this analysis does not include any prospect imports intended for future breeding, but will be added once they have produced a registered NA foal. It would be beneficial for any imported prospect to be made known to the entire NA breeding community so they can gain knowledge of how it can be factored in breeding decisions.

Disclaimer

All of the data in this document is for informational purposes only and can be used as a guide for personal research. Pedigree data was sourced from the Grassroots database which is utilized by the Dales Pony Society. Any user of this data is encouraged to do their own research and data checking when making decisions related to breeding Dales Ponies in NA. Although great measures were taken to be as accurate as possible with this data, there is no guarantee nor a determined percentage of accuracy.
